MOST IMPORTANT to the LADIES.

MOST IMPORTANT to the LADIES.—
ASTONISHING DISCOVERY.

Dr. GEISSNER'S celebrated MENSTRUAL PILLS have been long and widely known as most wonderful in their effects, being prepared with great scientific skill, designed for formles only, and to reach the various irregularities and suppressions of nature. They act like a charm, so sently and middy, and yet so invariably efficacionsly, as well as a curative as a preventive. In the Fernale Hospitals in Vienna, Farls, and Serfin, they have entirely seperseded the use of all other remedies; because where a cure is attainable by imedicinal spancies they are certain of success. Their astonishing efficacy would be almost incredible if not vouched for by blachbitable testimony, in numerous instances producing regularity of nature after all hope had been alandoned.

Every lady who has used them will never be without a box. They are composed of most coetly, rare, and valuable extracts. No tess, berbs, soaking feet, so weakening, troublesome and injurious, contrums and compounds advertised and palmed of as "fernale pills."

Married ladies will find particular instructions in the directions, in which are stated the various symptoms by which the causes of the suppression may be determined, as well as advice of the utmost importance.

Price One Boliar per Box, containing explicit directions.

Each Box will be algued by Dr. R. G. GEISSNER.

Principal Office, No. 127; Liberty-st., New York City, or to Box No. 2,55 New York Office, and a box will be sent by return mail, as they are put up in scaled envelopes, and can be sent with the strictest privacy to any part of the United States.

The recent census of the Territory of Minnesota exhibits a remarkable increase in its population. Returns, official and unofficial, from twenty nine counties exhibit a population of 49,000. The seven counties to be heard from will make the aggregate about 55,000. The population of St. Paul is 5,454. In another year, it is supposed, Minnesota will be large enough for admission into the Union as a State.

ACCIDENT ON THE HARLEM RAILROAD

TWO OTHERS DANGEROUSLY WOUNDED.

Between 11 and 12 o'clock yesterday morning an accident occurred to a gravel train, on the Harlem Railroad, near Williams' Bridge, that cost three men their lives, and it is feared will result in the death of two others. From our special reporters, who at once repaired to the scene of the disaster, we gather the subjoined account of its cause and results.

The Harlem gravel train composed of 10 cars, with 30 or 40 laborers upon them, having discharged its load was backing for the gravel pit turnout at Wilthe last car of the train, observed an ox leap out of most promptitude the alarm was communicated to the engineer, who as speedily reversed his engine; ning a short distance over the sleepers, three of cars were hurled down an embankment fifteen er track about one hundred yards further, and then shared the fate of the others. Five men sat upon the backs over into the grass lot. The rest of the train was brought to a stand-still, and the Engineer, Conductor, and laborers hastened back to the spot to assist the wounded and gather up the dead. They found four maimed and mutilated mes lying about the spot suffering the most intense agony from their wounds. An empty car was run down from Williams Bridge and the men lifted in and taken back to the village, whence by the next train they were sent to New-York

James Burns, laborer, unmarried, 25 years of age; residence in this City. His injuries were mainly about the head.

John Callahan, laborer, of this City, had beth of his legs shattered to pieces, and deed last night in the City Hospital.

DANGEBOUSLY WOUNDED.

John Dooly, laborer, both legs broken, and hip dislocated.

Lawrence Martin, laborer, of this City, 27 years old, residence Forty-second-st. One leg broken in two places, and the other thigh fractured.

These two cases are deemed exceedingly dangerous; last night the consulting Surgeons of the City Hospital were sent for to decide if amputation would save Lawrence Greeze, the flagman, was taken to the City Hospital. On examination it was found that he had suffered severe contusions on the legs. He went home last evening. It is proper to state that as soon as possible two physicians from William's Bridge west to attend upon the injured; and another, on his way to Albany, left the train to tender his services. So unostentatious were their ministrations, however, that no-body could tell us their names.

CORONE'S INQUEST.

Mr. Wm. H. Lawrence, Coroner of Westchester County, held an inquest at William's Bridge upon the bodies of Burns and Mullin, when the following testimony was obtained:

bodies of Burns and Mullin, when the following testimony was obtaiced:

John Ketnedy, sworn: I am a laberer in the employ of the Heriem Railroad Company; was on the last car of the gravel train this morning with several others: our train was backed toward the gravel switch, and we were going at about 12 miles an hour, when, as we turned the curve a third of a mile to the south of this village, I saw an ox run from the bushes and get on the track in front of the train about a rod ahead the alarm was given, but before the train could be stopped it rain over the ox, and the trucks were thrown down the bank: Burns and Mullin were killed and several men injured; those who were injured about the legs were sitting between the curse when the collision took place.

William Maler, sworn—I'am conductor of the gravel train; we were coming around the curve when I saw the men on the forward car give a motion with their hands, making signals of alarm; I was on the tender of the engine, and hallooed to the engineer to reverse the engine, speposing that semething was wrong; he reversed and stopped the engine within two rods; at bands, making signals of alarm; I was on the tender of the engine, and hallooed to the engineer to reverse the engine, supposing that semething was wrong; he reversed and stopped the engine within two rods; at the same moment I saw the end car raising off the track, and the men on the train running to and fro in great alarm; I jumped off and found that three cars had been thrown down the bank, and one across the track; on the grass in the lot at the bottom of the embankment I found the bodies of James Barns and Patrick Mullin; they were lying on their backs away from the cars, and appeared to have been thrown against the stone fence; none of their bones were broken, though they were much cut about their heads; the train was running at a speed of ten or twelve miles an hour in its regular time; two doctors came and attended to the wounded men, who were subsequently sent down to the City; I had a flagman on behind the train to give a signal to me in case of anything being on the track; every precaution was taken to avoid accident, but this was unavoidable; the bank was about infecen feet high.

John Shutts, the Engineer, testified that he made every endeaver to stop the train, but could not do so soon enough to prevent the accident.

THE VERBICT.

The Jury returned as their verdict that the deceased, three duty returned as their vertual has the deceased, thrown from the gravel-train down the embankment, which accident was the result of an ox running upon the track in front of the train. They further find that no blame is to be attached to the Engineer, Conductor or any of the officers of the Company.

After the inquest the bedies of the dead were sent down to New-York by the next train.

favor of the married men. This was the first match played by the Club since their formation, and right well did they come up. They have some nice players among them and after a little more practice will be able to challenge some stronger Club. The ground was very rough; it is pleasantly situated a little off the Jamaica Plankroad, and has a beautiful row of trees along one side that nicely shades it. Here the Club had seats placed, and during the day they were well filled with ladies, which, with the tents and American flag flying, made quite a gay scene. amounts upon the actual services performed, taking the sums heretofore reported and adopted as the basis. and have endeavored to report such amounts as would be equal to the psy hereafter recommended by the Committee.

The Committee also presented a report in relation to the bill of Charles B. Foote for Third District Sixth Ward, in which he charged 74; days, ($149,) being from May 10 to Aug. 5,) Sundays included, and $1375 for interpreter, being $162 75 in all. The Committee recommended that the 22 days charged for May, and the 10 Sundays charged, be deducted, and the bill audited Ald, Herrick and Ely, of the Committee, stated that they had endeavored to adjust the accounts as fairly and liberally as possible. They have cut down the time when any in May was charged, and have cut down that of Mr. Doty (who charged $80 for copying and interpreting.) Some of the Marshals, Ald. Ely said, have charged 6 hours for a day's work, and stated to the Committee that 4 hours should have been considered a day, and they pointed the Committee, in proof of it, to the sign on the Mayor's office door, to show that the day's work there is but four hours (from 10 to 2). Ald. Ely complained that while the Committee have had a most ardious duty for several days in adjusting these bills, and have reported faithfully what they consider to be proper, that they should be blamed both by friends and foos.

It was suggested by some member that the repert that the Marshals are entitled to pay from the time of their appointment they can afterward receive what their appointment they can afterward receive what may have been deducted. In reference to this Ald. Herrick stated that some Marshals having the smallest number of inhabitants in their districts received their appointments in the early part of May, while others having a large number in their districts did not receive their appointments till 7th June, and along till 10th

June.

The report in favor of paying Mr. Foote $100 75, instead of $162 75, was adopted—13 to 2.

On motion of the Committee the bid of Mr. Concklin, (Ex-Alderman,) as Census Marshall Second District, Twenty-first Ward, was read. It charged 92 trick the king census, 26 days for copying, and a large triet, Twenty-first Ward, was read. It charged 92 days in taking census, 26 days for copying, and a large sum for integrating, being $327 62 in all. This is one of the bills (25 yet remaining) that have not yet been passed upon, principally, it was understood, on account of what is considered excessive charges for interpreters, one for instance baving but 1,700 inhabitants in his district charging $50 for interpreters.

In relation to the time, it was stated by Ald, Howard that the Committee had allowed in some cases for the time charged in May.

Ald, Herrick said they had not done so where they had been aware of it.

heations to emigrants about leaving for America, in order to give all the information they can to prevent them from suffering imposition at the hands of the runners in Europe. He moved that a Committee be appointed to purchase a suitable description of Castic Garden and the purposes for which it had now been secured by the Commissioners of Emigration, the same to be translated and incorporated into the Emigrant guides published in Europe. The motion was adopted, and Commissioners Garrig, Kennedy and Verplanck were constituted such Committee.

Mr. Kennedy stated also that in consideration of the fact that large numbers of emigrant runners had gene to Europe to pursue their business there, he offered a resolution to anthorize the same Committee to prepare a communication suitablel to be addressed to foreign authorities, showing the propriety of restraining or suppressing booking agents in their ports. And to obtain the sametion of the authorities at Washington in support of these views.

The Liquer Question—A communication was received from Mr. Elisha Harris, Superintendent of the Marine Hospital, stating that their store of fiquors was nearly exhausted, and that he had directed a requisition to be made out for five gallons of wine and five gallons of brandy. Mr. H. asked the particular attention of the Board to the quality of the articles fermished, as it was not expedient for them to preseribe any which was not of a good quality.

It was moved that it be referred to the Purchasting Commissioner Kennery objected. He said that one of the members of the Commistice was a Temperance man, and the other member was confessedly no judge of the article.

A CHARACTER.

A CHARACTER.

William Nollis, otherwise known as "Billy Devil," who is a well known personage in the City, was brought in for vagrancy. These of our readers who live in the Seventh, Eleventh, Thirteenth, and Fourteenth Wards will need no description of this eccentric person, who is a good deal of a character, after his own diabolic fashion. For the information, however, of those persons who may never have encountered him, a brief description of the individual and his distinguishing idiosyncrasy, may be requisite. Nollis is a man of about forty-five years; of singularly courteous demeanor, using good language in a reduced mannance of the education of a well bred man. He was an accountant for a large importing house in Pearlest, and was noted for his clear-beaded ingenuity in unraveling and settling up complicated and difficult matters of business. Rum, however, was this ruin-from an unaccustomed glass, to a daily dram—from an occasional inclugence to a fixed and settled habit, the practice of drinking grew upon him. He became untrustworthy and lost his place, since which he has ever been a kind of halfway vagrant. When under the influence of liquor he seems to be afflicted with a sort of satanic fit, and imagines himself surrounded by devils and monsters. His mind is however totally free from any emotions of terror or fear, and he regards the fiends his diseased brain conjures constantly into existence as so many old acquaintances, and even friends. He will hold conversations with them, and seem to laugh and jest with his invisible companions, as if their society was the most agreeable in the world. His mathematical turn of mind is also displayed in his talk laugh and jest with his invisible companions, as if their society was the most agreeable in the world. His mathematical turn of mind is also displayed in his talk with the devils: he has a perpetual faucy for adding them up, opening accounts with them, and going through various business forms with his unreal cus-tomers, with as much seriousness as if he was dealing with substantial "solid men."

with substantial "solid men."

Billy is well known in that part of the City once before referred to, and his manner is so courteous, his language so free from vulgarity, and his deportment so inoffensive, that, although his failing is well known, "poor Billy Devil" gets many a word of kindness and commisseration from those who see in him the lamentable wreck of a fine mind thrown from its balance by an unfortunate habit. He never gets drunk enough to require the interference of a third person, and was only brought in this time by an officer new on this beat, who supposed him insane and incapable of taking care of himself. Billy lives upon charity, now and then doing some odd little job of work, for which he deems a comfortable meal an ample remuneration. He was brought before the Justice, who asked him his full name.

william Nellis, Sir, and the devils are my friends. William Nollis, Sir, and the devils are my friends. They are good friends, too, Sir, and trest me well, much better than men do, for they never tell me to "go away" when I am hungry. I love them all, Sir, every one; from the big devil there, sitting on the back of your Homor's chair, to this little one in my vest pecket; but will confess that I have a peculiar affection for the red-eyed one with a baby devil in herarms. They are not all here, Sir, this morning; they gone on various errands for me. One to Harlem for an egg plant; three to Newark for harvest apples; one to the Moon for watercresses; one to Africa for a bootjack; but the best and dearest one of all has gone to South Brooklyn for sweet potatoes. Seven and three are ten, and one is eleven, and seven are eighteen, and six are twenty-four, and nine are thirty-three, and that isn't half, if you please Sir, for I know them all, and they are all my friends. But I beg your pardon, Sir, there's a mischievous little fiend, who hasn't yet cut his teeth, trying to upset your inkstand, he yet cut his teeth, trying to upset your inkstand, he tried a minute ago to steal the officer's cub, but the little rascal couldn't lift it. Justice—I'm afraid, Billy that you can't take care of Justice—I'm afraid, Billy that you can't take care of yourself very well, and that I shall have to send you where you will be kindly treated.

Billy—If you think best, Sir, certainly; but please let my friends go with me. Its true, they're devils, but then they're merry ones, and we are very bappy together. You see that one in the corner, picking his teeth with his tail, he's the one that sleeps with me and keeps the dogs off; he's amiable, very but I never could break him of stealing peanuts: I don't like to complain of a friend, but if your Honor would send him up to the Island for a little while—but then they'd corrupt his morals. No, on the whole, would send him up to the Island for a little while—but then they'd corrupt his morals. No, on the whole, your Honor. I think I'll try him a little longer myself; he's my pet devil, and I don't like to trust him among the Irish. I have had an account with him a good many years, and I guess after all, when I come to strike a balance, it will be slightly in his favor.

During this speech Officer 1,001 has been explaining to the Judge some of Billy's peculiarities, and the functionary changes his mind.

Judge—Billy, the policeman informs that you always get along wit hout annoying your neighbors, and seem able to take care of yourself, so I shall let you ge.

Billy—Thank you, Sir. if you want a few devils to domesticate I can spare you some. I've got now—let me see—ninety and twenty are a hundred and ten, and seventy-one are—

Judge-No matter, I am not keeping house and Judge—No matter, I am not keeping house and couldn't make use of them at present.

Eilly—Very well—good morning, Sir.

Here the poor fellow started to leave the room, and when he got to the door turned and whistled as if calling a dog, and beckoned with his finger. He was undoubtedly summening his imaginary frierds, and although the motion was in itself ludicrons, there was not a smile on the face of a single spectator, as the half-crazed man departed; first removing his hat and including every person in the room in one comprehension. including every person in the room in one comprehen-sive parting bow. Poor "Billy Devil" had better friends in the court-room than the friends he seemed so implicitly to trust.

Fire is Belleville.—On Tuesday last at about 12 o'cleck the large dwelling-house occupied and cwned by Mr. Samuel Perry, at Belleville, New Jersey, was found to be on fire. The flames spread with great rapidity. The wind was in such a direction as to waft them directly over the building. In the absence of engines there was the slightest hope of saving the house. Every effort was directed to saving the furniture and the barns. The latter were preserved and much of the former, though many valuable articles were destroyed. The fine mansion has been known as the Butger's place, having formerly been occupied by a family of that name. It has welcomed within its portals many of the genuine Knickerbockers, who will doubtless hear with regret that it is consumed. The fire took on the roof of the main body of the house from a spark from the kitchen-himney. Loss estimated at $5,000. No insurance. Although the fire occurred at noon-day, there was an unusual amount of plundering carried on. Bureaus of clothing that were carried out with the drawers locked, were broken open and the contents carried off. One of these was filled with the clothing of the recently deceased wife of Mr. Perry. All the silver in common use in the family was carried off, and a box of jewelry worth $200, and some of the thieves mutilated property that they did not wish to steal.

FIRE AT BRISTOL—FIFTEEN HORSES AND MULES BURNED.—A destructive fire broke out at noon on Monday morning in the large canal stable belonging to Samuel Allen. There were about fifteen horses and mules, together with a quantity of hay, grain and harness in the building, all of which were entirely reduced to ashes. Three valuable mules, the property of Mr. L. M. Wharton, the proprietor of the stables, were smong those destroyed, which, with the hay and grain consumed, caused the less to fall somewhat heavily upon him, as from information obtained there was no insurance upon the property. The twelve remaining animals were owned by boatmen.

Officer De Angelis repaired on board the ship Union, in which vessel the remains of Capt. F., said to have been murdered by one of his mates, and others, off Rio, were brought to New-York, expecting that the parties charged with the murder had also been sent in the vessel, but as retained that such was not the case, and that they will probably be sent to New-York by a United States steamship or man-of-war. The mate, it is said, made an attempt to take his own life by stabbing at Rio.

FIRE IN WATER-STREET-ARREST OF A COURTEZAN FOR ARSON.

At a quarter before 9 o'clock last night, a fire eo curred in the third floor of the dwelling-house, No. 275 Water-st., occupied by John Montgomery. The alarm brought the members of Hose Company No. 10, and in a short time the fire was extinguished without a general alarm.

Lieut. Langdon of the Fourth Ward, notified the Fire Marshall, who visited the premises and made an investigation, with the following result:

A young woman named Jane Wright, one of the boarders, had, in the morning, quarrelled with Mrs.

Montgomery, who first beat her and then expelled her from the house. For the assault Jane threatened to have revenge, and in the evening she privately entered the house and made her way up stairs unknown to the inmates, and went into one of the front bed-rooms in the third story, where she is alleged to have set two of the beds on fire. She was seen in the room with a lighted candle, and as she was making her escape out of the side door to the street, the bedrooms which she had just left were found on fire. In one of the beds a piece of sperm candle was found. She was arrested and taken to the Fourth Ward

The damage to the furniture amounted to $150,

FIRE IN BROOME-ST. At 9 o'clock last night a fire broke out in the workshop of Gale & Son, silversmiths, in the basement of No. 447 Broome-st. The fire was caused by a stool under one of the soldering fans taking fire. Little demage was done.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE AT PORT DEPOSIT. - We regret Destrective Fire at Port Deposit.—We regret to learn that Port Deposit was visited yesterday morning by a most destructive conflagration, property to the value of nearly $60,000 having been consumed. The fire broke out at 3 o clock A. M., in the extensive sach factory and planing-mill of Mesers. Wiley & Thompson, and extended to their large warehouse sojoining, which with its contents was also detroyed. The less of Mesers. Wiley & Thompson is over $20,000, on which they had only $5,000 insurance.

From the warehouse of Mesers. W. & T. the flames spread to the adjoining warehouse, owned by Edwin Wilmer and occupied by Mesers. Davis & Co., grain and produce merchants, which was consumed with its entire contents. There was no insurance on the stock of goods, but the building was fully insured. Mesers. Davis & Co.'s lumber-yard, adjoining the warehouse, was also partly destroyed—no insurance.

The office of Mesers. E. D. McLanaban & Sons was also swept off by the flames. Their loss is about $1,000, on which there was no insurance. The dwelling houses of David Kenedy and Ephraim Cornish were also destroyed, but the furniture of both was saved in a damaged condition. There was no insurance on either the houses or the furniture. This is a most sad catastrophe in this enterprising town.
